Skillnaden mellan Wrights och DNA

Parning av besläktade hundar ger upphov till inavel. Inavelsgraden definieras som den andel av en individs gener där båda allelerna är identiska genom arv. En individ med en inavelsgrad på 6,25 procent är homozygot i 6,25 procent av generna. Uttryckt på ett annat sätt är sannolikheten för att genvarianterna i ett enskilt locus ska vara dubblerade 6,25 procent. Sannolikheten för en dubbling av alleler ökar alltså ju mer besläktade de parade individerna är. Denna sannolikhetsberäkning kallas för Wrights efter Sewall Wright som var en amerikansk genetiker. Beräkning utgår ifrån att förfäderna (bortom vanligtvis fem generationer) är obesläktade.

Idag finns DNA-teknik som visar antal homozygota gener, det vill säga inavelsgraden i hundens arvs massa. Nedan följer olika stamtavlor som visar 4 generationer. I dessa stamtavlor framkommer samtliga hundarnas inavelsökning så som den beräknas enligt Wrights samt de testade hundarnas genetiska inavelsgrad. I några av stamtavlorna finns det flera generationer av hundar vars DNA har kartlagts. I några stamtavlor har hela kullar blivit DNA-testade. Hundarnas DNA visar att rasen har en genetisk inavelsgrad som i genomsnitt ligger på närmare 28%, vilket skiljer sig kraftigt från Wrights sannolikhetsberäkning.

Mating of related dogs causes inbreeding. The degree of inbreeding is defined as the proportion of an individual's genes where both alleles are identical by descent. An individual with an inbreeding rate of 6.25 percent is homozygous in 6.25 percent of the genes. Expressed in another way, the probability that the gene variants in a single locus will be doubled is 6.25 percent. The probability of doubling of alleles thus increases the more related the paired individuals are. This probability calculation is called Wrights after Sewall Wright who was an American geneticist. The system of calculation is based on the assumption that the ancestors are unrelated.

Today, there is DNA technology that shows the number of homozygous genes, i.e. the degree of inbreeding in the dog's genome. In this document there are different pedigrees showing 4 generations. In these pedigrees, the calculated inbreeding as in accordance with the system of Wrights as well as the inbreeding proven by DNA becomes visual. In some of the pedigrees there are several generations of dogs whose DNA has been mapped out, in some pedigrees entire litters have been tested. The DNA of those dogs shows that the breed has a genetic inbreeding level that is in average close to 28%, which differs greatly from Wright's probability calculation.
